Defence Minister Rajnath Singh celebrates Diwali with troops at India-China border in Sikkim

New Delhi – Defence Minister Rajnath Singh celebrated Diwali on Tuesday with soldiers stationed at the India-China border in Sikkim. The minister visited a forward post and participated in a modest ceremony that included lighting lamps, traditional prayers, and a brief address on the importance of security.

During the visit, Singh met with officers and soldiers from various units, inspected their readiness, and reiterated the government's commitment to providing essential infrastructure and welfare to personnel serving in remote, high-altitude areas.

The celebration took place amid heightened security alertness at the border. Officials used the occasion to underscore the firm resolve to defend India's borders while honoring the army's cultural sentiments. The minister extended warm Diwali wishes to all and called upon citizens to support the armed forces.

Images from the ceremony were published in the media, depicting the intersection of national security and cultural tradition at a strategically sensitive border.

Sikkim Adventure Tourism Festival concludes, celebrating outdoor enthusiasm

The Sikkim Adventure Tourism Festival, held in the Himalayan state of Sikkim, concluded after a week-long program that showcased the region's natural beauty and adventure potential. The festival attracted participants from various parts of India, providing a platform for trekking, rock climbing, and other high-altitude sports.

In addition to sports, the festival featured cultural presentations showcasing local traditions and crafts, drawing audiences to the venue. Officials appreciated the positive impact on attendance and local tourism.

During the closing ceremony, organizers announced that Sikkim would host an International Paragliding Championship later this year, aiming to establish the state as a premier destination for aerial sports. The announcement was received with enthusiasm by athletes and tourism stakeholders.

The festival's success is seen as a boost for Sikkim's growing adventure tourism sector, and officials have planned to expand the program in future editions.

Rajnath Singh Pays New Tribute to Martyred Soldier During Sikkim Visit

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh arrived in Sikkim on Thursday and visited a remote border outpost, which is regarded as a symbol of a martyred soldier's steadfast service. Located near the India-China border, the outpost continues to be manned by the soldier's colleagues as a formal tradition following his death.

The minister held a small ceremony at the site, where he paid tribute to the martyr and commended the soldiers' constant vigilance. Officials stated that this tradition not only boosts morale but also serves as a reminder of the sacrifices made by the army.

Locals and veterans gathered to witness the event, expressing pride in the soldier's legacy. The Ministry of Defence said that such steps reinforce the Indian Army's commitment to securing the country's borders, regardless of personal losses.

Rajnath Singh emphasized the importance of honoring martyrs and maintaining operational readiness on Sikkim's sensitive border. The visit is expected to boost the morale of soldiers deployed in high-altitude areas and highlight the human stories behind India's defense policy.

Sikkim HC orders warning system for 40 high-risk glacial lakes

The Sikkim High Court issued an order directing the central government and the Sikkim state administration to establish early warning systems around 40 high-risk glacial lakes.

The court highlighted the growing threat of Glacial Lake Outburst Floods (GLOFs), which have previously caused damage in neighboring Himalayan states, noting that scientific assessments indicate a high probability of sudden rupture in these lakes.

The court recommended the installation of real-time water level sensors, automated alarms, and communication links with disaster management agencies, as suggested by the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA).

The court ordered the concerned authorities to submit a detailed implementation plan within three months and to ensure regular monitoring and maintenance of the system.

Environmental organizations welcomed the order, stating that it underscores the need for active risk mitigation in the Himalayan ecosystem.

Tibetan Minister Tsegyal Drany Completes Official Tour of Tibetan Settlements in West Bengal and Sikkim

Senior Minister Kalon Tsegyal Chukya Drany of the Central Tibetan Administration (CTA) has concluded his visit to Tibetan settlements located in West Bengal and Sikkim. The trip, undertaken in the early part of this week, formed part of CTA's ongoing effort to maintain close contact with the Tibetan diaspora community. Drany met elders, religious heads, and youth representatives in the settlements. Discussions covered the preservation of Tibetan cultural traditions, strengthening education in the Tibetan language, and reviewing livelihood programmes funded by the CTA. Local leaders welcomed the minister's presence, noting that such engagement provides an opportunity to highlight ground-level challenges and request additional resources. CTA reiterated its commitment to assist the settlements in areas such as health, vocational training and infrastructure. The tour also underscores the broader relationship between the Indian states and the Tibetan Government-in-Exile, reflecting a mutual interest in safeguarding the welfare of the refugee Tibetan community while respecting India's sovereign policies.

Sikkim Governor Calls for Eco-Friendly Diwali Celebrations

Sikkim Governor Ms. N.R. Singh addressed the public on Thursday, urging a sustainable Diwali celebration. She highlighted the environmental impact of excessive firecracker usage and called on communities to engage in waste segregation and recycling. The Governor announced a statewide campaign that will distribute eco-friendly lamps and promote the use of biodegradable materials. She also appealed to local businesses and schools to organise awareness programmes. Officials said the initiative aligns with the state's commitment to reducing pollution and protecting the Himalayan environment.

Banks Closed on 10 November: State-wise Bank Holiday Status

India's banking sector will observe a pause after the government declared Tuesday, 10 November a national holiday. All scheduled commercial banks, cooperative banks and regional rural banks will keep their services closed on that day. The holiday follows the public holiday calendar set by the Ministry of Finance and is uniformly applied across the country. Without any state-specific variations, every branch, ATM and online banking service will be unavailable. Business owners and individuals are advised to plan their transactions ahead of the closure, as payment processing, fund transfers and loan disbursements will be delayed until the next working day. The measure is intended to give employees a day of rest and to align banking services with the national holiday programme.

Green Lake Trek Reopens in Sikkim, Reviving Adventure Tourism

The famed Green Lake Trek in Sikkim has been reopened, giving adventure enthusiasts the chance to traverse alpine meadows and the region's turquoise lake once again. The state tourism department said the trek's revival will energise Sikkim's adventure tourism, which has become a key driver of economic growth in recent years. Local homestays, gear-rental shops and other service providers anticipate benefiting from the influx of visitors. Authorities have urged trekkers to adhere to safety guidelines, carry appropriate equipment and protect the mountain ecosystem.

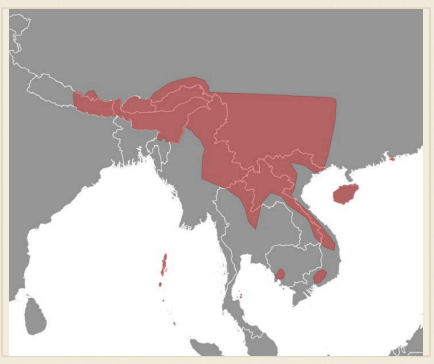
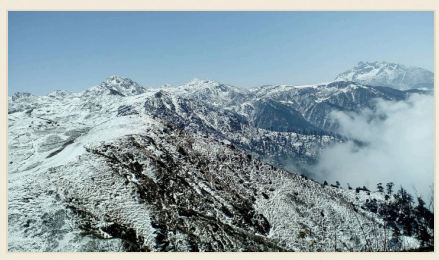
Sikkim Animal Welfare Group Files Police Complaint Over Firecracker Ban Violation



The Sikkim Animal Welfare Society (SAWS) filed a formal complaint with local police, accusing individuals and vendors of violating the firecracker ban. The group says that despite the ban, fireworks are being sold and used illegally during festivals, posing a threat to wildlife and the general public. SAWS noted that the loud noises disturb or injure birds and small animals, and therefore called for strict enforcement of the ban. Police confirmed receipt of the complaint and pledged to investigate the violations. This move aligns with the state government's efforts to reduce pollution and protect the Himalayan ecosystem.

WEATHER

Sudden Snow, Hail and Rain Hit Sikkim and North Bengal



A sudden weather shift brought heavy snowfall, hail and rain to Sikkim and North Bengal, causing widespread disruption. Roads in the hilly areas have become slippery, and many local transport services have been suspended for safety. The meteorological department has warned of avalanche risk and advised residents to stay indoors. The abrupt change has also impacted agricultural activities, with farmers reporting damage to crops and livestock. Local authorities are closely monitoring the situation and have set up emergency shelters for affected communities. Residents are urged to follow official guidance and avoid unnecessary travel until conditions improve.

Magnitude 4.9 earthquake strikes Sikkim-Nepal border

A magnitude 4.9 earthquake was recorded in the area along the border between Sikkim, India, and neighboring Nepal, according to Pratinidhi Times. Light tremors were felt in several settlements near the border, and local authorities issued an advisory urging caution.

The Himalayan region, which includes Sikkim, is prone to continuous seismic activity due to the collision of the Indian and Eurasian tectonic plates. Scientists keep such moderate-magnitude earthquakes under constant surveillance, as they can indicate tectonic stress.

As of the time of reporting, official sources have not confirmed any casualties or property damage. Emergency services are on standby to assess potential impacts, and surveys will continue for further updates.

Magnitude 4.9 earthquake hits West Sikkim; light tremors felt in Gangtok

A magnitude 4.9 earthquake, classified as moderate, struck the hilly regions of West Sikkim. The tremor was centered in the remote western part of Sikkim, an area that experiences periodic seismic activity.

Residents in Gangtok, the state capital, located approximately 70 kilometers away, felt light tremors, but no reports of damage or injuries were received. Local authorities confirmed that the shaking was minor and that no immediate damage occurred.

Disaster management teams and the India Meteorological Department are monitoring the situation and have advised caution regarding potential aftershocks.

Sikkim's Contribution: 5% of India's Industrial Drugs Transported via a Single Highway

Sikkim is playing a pivotal role in India's pharmaceutical sector, accounting for roughly five percent of the nation's industrial drug output. The majority of the state's production is concentrated in a few specialized plants that meet national demand. Logistical data indicate that almost the entire volume of this drug production is transported via a single highway, which links the state's industrial hubs with the country's major distribution centers. Reliance on this single route underscores the importance of maintaining efficiency in the drug supply chain. The concentration of both production and transportation in Sikkim highlights the state's strategic role in ensuring the timely supply of essential medicines.

Sikkim High Court quashes criminal case over Darjeeling-Sikkim unification talks

On Tuesday, the Sikkim High Court quashed a criminal case related to discussions regarding the potential unification of Darjeeling and Sikkim. The court stated that the issue is part of a political and constitutional debate, not a criminal offense.

The case arose after police charged several activists and local leaders under the Indian Penal Code for organizing a meeting on the possibility of merging parts of Darjeeling with Sikkim.

protection of freedom of expression and democratic discourse on constitutional issues. It was held that discussing a political proposal cannot be considered criminal unless it incites violence or illegal activity.

Legal experts welcomed the decision, noting that it reinforces the judiciary's role in protecting political discourse. The order may have implications for similar cases related to regional autonomy movements in other states.

The court did not comment on the validity of the unification proposal, allowing the political debate to continue on the public platform.

ONGC to operate Venezuela oil blocks, gaining access to world's largest reserves

ONGC has announced it will become the operator for several oil blocks in Venezuela, a move following an agreement signed between the two parties earlier this month. This step marks a significant expansion of the Indian oil major's overseas portfolio.

Venezuela holds the world's largest proven crude oil reserves, and the operatorship will allow ONGC to oversee exploration, development, and production in these blocks. The company stated that this partnership will strengthen its supply chain and diversify its sources of crude oil.

Experts believe the agreement could enhance India's energy security by providing a stable source of high-quality crude oil, while also strengthening ONGC's position in the South American oil sector. The company said it would mobilize technical and financial resources to commence operations in accordance with Venezuelan regulations.

The deal also reflects the trend of Indian energy companies securing strategic footholds in global markets amidst volatility.
